vegetables

ages 1 & 2 years

Hi – It's me, your busy toddler! Have you noticed? I am learning all the time. Teach me my colors by serving a rainbow of vegetables. Offer them to me at least 3 times a day.

Let me see you eat veggies, too.
You are my role model for everything.
You're the best!

tips on feeding me vegetables

Teach me my colors! Offer me a rainbow of veggies.

Some of my favorite colors are:
squash ... sweet potatoes ... carrots...
green beans ... peas ... broccoli ...
tomatoes ... beets

Colorful vegetables help keep me healthy.

- They help me fight colds and infections.
- They help me have regular bowel movements.
- They help me grow and glow!

When I'm healthy:

- I am happier.
- I learn better.
- I behave better.
- I am more pleasant to be around.

ideas for meals & snacks

Quick for lunch

- vegetable soup – or add a handful of frozen mixed veggies to any soup
- shredded carrot salad
- english muffin pizza topped with veggies
- bell pepper strips

How much vegetables should I eat?

- Offer me veggies 3 times a day.
- Offer me about 1/2 cup to 1 cup of veggies a day.

I don't eat much at a time, so offer me veggies at lunch, supper, and as part of snacks. At my age, a snack is like a little meal.

Time for dinner. Let's have...

- chopped broccoli
- sweet potato pieces
- mashed squash
- creamed spinach
- cooked beets

Pick a vegetable snack

- cherry tomatoes, cut in half
- thawed frozen peas
- raw zucchini strips
- canned chick peas or black beans
- leftover cooked carrots or green beans
