BURLINGTON – The Vermont Department of Health continues to make the H1N1 vaccine widely available to anyone age 6 months or older, including a free public clinic today at Contois Auditorium in Burlington City Hall (12 p.m. to 3 p.m.).

“We continue to see strong attendance at many of the public clinics and we’re hoping to vaccinate several hundred people today, including walk-in traffic from the Church Street Marketplace,” said Health Commissioner Wendy Davis, MD. “The clinic today right in the heart of Burlington’s shopping district should also increase our visibility and remind people that if you haven’t been vaccinated, not only is it not too late, now is the time.”

Information on H1N1 vaccination clinics is available at the Health Department’s website: www.healthvermont.gov or by dialing 2-1-1. You can follow us on Twitter at <http://twitter.com/healthvermont>
